New report shines a light on jail incarceration in the Empire State

The Vera Institute of Justice today launched an ambitious online report that shines a light on the growth of jail incarceration across every county in New York State. The Empire State of Incarceration, which analyzes county by county the factors that lead people into the local justice system, provides a deeper understanding of the drivers of incarceration and identifies solutions for reducing the overuse of jail. The report includes a data clearinghouse, with tools that illustrate the vast disparities in an individual's experience with the justice system, dependent on whether a person is arrested in an urban or a small or rural county.

At a time when New York is considering important legislation—on bail, due process, and speedy trial—to reduce the overuse of jail, it is imperative to understand the scope of the incarceration problem in New York, to explore solutions to this problem, and to enact reforms that will succeed.

Data highlights from the tool:

- Broome County has one of the highest jail incarceration rates in the state—about 393 per 100,000 people in the county are in jail, almost double the statewide rate of 190 per 100,000.
- Clinton County has seen huge growth in incarceration. Eighty-nine percent of people in jail in Clinton County are held on misdemeanors, by definition low-level offenses under the law.

Some proposed solutions to the drivers of jail:

- Despite the constitutional right to a lawyer, people who are arrested in suburban and rural parts of New York often have bail set without a lawyer present. The report recommends having counsel at all bail hearings to ensure that people are not held in jail simply because they can't afford their liberty.
- Many people spend weeks, even months, in jail across the state waiting for their cases to be resolved. Speedy trial laws must be improved to reduce court delays and inefficiencies that result in long stays in jail.

While the story of jail incarceration over the last few decades has been driven by New York City, we're at a moment of consensus to close Rikers Island and replace it with a smaller, more humane jail system. It's now time to address the new story of jail incarceration in the rest of New York: growth driven by suburban and rural counties. Explore and learn more about the drivers of jail in your county:

The Vera Institute of Justice is a justice reform change agent. Vera produces ideas, analysis and research that inspire change in the systems people rely upon for safety and justice, and works in close partnership with government and civic leaders to implement it.

RE: Inmate Name: BUCKNER LANEL
Parole Number: 427IO
Institution Number: MP0030
Bill & Term: See Attachment

____ RRRI Minimum
____ Standard Minimum

Dear District Attorney:

The Pennsylvania Board of Probation and Parole, in accordance with the Prisons and Parole Code, 61 Pa.C.S. §§ 6131, 6132, 6137 (g), 6139 (c), has scheduled the above-named inmate for parole consideration. The Recidivism Risk Reduction Incentive (RRRI), amending 42 P.S. § 9756; see also 61 Pa.C.S. §§ 4501-4512, establishes a RRRI minimum sentence as specified by the sentencing Court for inmates who: (1) are generally drug and/or alcohol dependant; (2) have not committed personal injury, sex, or firearms related (past or present) crimes; and (3) do not have a history of present or past violent behavior.

Review of the case, including an interview, is scheduled for FEBRUARY 2018. It is the practice of the Board to interview an inmate four months prior to the expiration of the RRRI minimum sentence or standard minimum sentence as indicated above, in order to facilitate the timely completion of the decision-making and release processes. Please be advised, that the inmate will not be released from confinement prior to the expiration of the RRRI minimum sentence or standard minimum sentence, as applicable, if approved for parole. Your recommendation regarding the inmate's possible release on parole is taken into consideration by the Board. Please submit any recommendations to this office by JANUARY 16, 2018 pursuant to 461 Pa.C.S. §§ 4506(a)(8), 6137 (g). We have enclosed a Memorandum form for your convenience if you wish to use it in lieu of other written comments.

The Crime Victims Act, 18 P.S. §§ 11.101 et seq., includes the right of crime victims to submit prior comment on certain release decisions made by the Board of Probation and Parole. Any crime victim wishing to exercise his/her right under this law should contact the Pennsylvania Office of the Victim Advocate at 1-800-563-6399 (Board of Probation and Parole).

If information is not received by the date listed in the second paragraph, we will assume that you have no objections to the inmate's release on parole. If you have further questions, please do not hesitate to contact my office.

Respectfully,

John J. Talaber, Esq.
Board Secretary

Fed's TLAC Rule

January 8, 1-2pm ET

In December of 2016, the Federal Reserve Board adopted final rules relating to a long-term debt, total loss absorbing capacity (TLAC), and clean holding company requirement. The rules apply to U.S. G-SIBs and also foreign banks that are G-SIBs and subject to an intermediate holding company requirement. Please join an expert presenter for an overview of the Fed's final rules; principal differences between the Fed's rules and the FSB approach; considerations for foreign banks subject to the rules; an assessment of the U.S. internal TLAC requirement compared to the IHC requirement proposed by the European Commission; and effects on other financial products.

Playing Well with Others: The Necessity of Professionalism Among Lawyers

January 9, 1-2pm ET

Lawyers were once among the most trusted and well-regarded professionals in the country. Over the last several decades, however, public opinion of the legal profession has declined. Recent poll results show that only 18% of people rate the ethical standards of lawyers as "High" or "Very High," while 37% rate lawyers' ethical standards as "Low" or "Very Low."

These statistics are troubling not only anecdotally but because they may make it harder for attorneys to defend against claims of legal malpractice when public perception of attorneys is low. Although some of this bad reputation stems from popular culture representations of attorneys, attorneys have the ability to turn the tide.

Please join expert faculty for a discussion that will focus on what attorneys should know and what they can do to practice professionalism, including responses and edicts from courts and bars on professionalism; being a zealous advocate without getting personal; disagreeing with opposing counsel without being disagreeable; and treating the law as a profession with individualized services.

Request for Proposal ("RFP") Process:
Structure, Substance and Additional Considerations for Corporate and Outside Counsel

January 10, 1-2pm ET

This Briefing will explore how in-house counsel can successfully master the Request for Proposal process when hiring counsel, experts, consultants, and vendors for litigation or transactions. Our panel will guide attendees through the entire RFP process – the necessary preparation; the drafting process; best practices in analyzing information received (and following up regarding same); evaluating potential fees/expenses, required workload, and alternative approaches to your matter; and best corporate/firm practices to maximize the benefits of what in today's legal market is the most useful first step to address and prepare for an upcoming litigation or transaction.

Expert faculty will address the fundamental underpinnings of the RFP process; how ethics and the Rules of Professional Conduct apply to the RFP process; preparation for the RFP process; structure and substance of RFPs; incorporating the various stages of litigation/transaction into your RFP; best corporate practices to maximize information received on budgeting and anticipated costs for your litigation/transaction; the interview and selection, and completion/transition process; and best practices, success stories, and lessons learned during the RFP process. Through their widely diverse range of experience on these issues (from in-house, private practice, and fee expert perspectives), presenters will provide insights on how to maximize information obtained, allow law firms to put their best foot forward, and lay the foundation for a collaborative, transparent relationship between client and counsel.

Helping Lawyers Look for Red Flags in Financial Statements

January 11, 1-2pm ET

Understanding financial statements and their relevance in various litigations is becoming increasingly important in the aftermath of the financial crisis. It is imperative that attorneys develop a working understanding and analytical framework of accounting to strengthen their background. This one-hour course is designed to give attorneys an overview of accounting standards, their relevance, and areas of the financial statements that are subject to manipulation and/or fraud. By using three real case studies the instructors are able to showcase three main areas of the financial statements that are susceptible to fraud and red flags.

Please join expert faculty and you will learn major types of financial statement fraud, using real-life cases to illustrate the schemes; the underlying accounting principles that are violated when fraud is perpetrated; red flags and other techniques useful in detecting financial statement fraud schemes; and how to read a financial statement.

Disaster Relief Funding: FEMA Grants – Key Considerations for Contractors

January 12, 1-2pm ET

Faculty:

Richard J. Meene
PwC
New York City

Over the past several months, the United States has been hit by many natural disasters that have left state and local communities devastated. The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), which is the federal agency that manages the nation's disaster relief efforts, has subsequently provided federal funds to individuals as well as local and state governments to help aid relief efforts. As FEMA and other government agencies commit federal funds to the impacted areas, potential contractors should understand how they can be awarded funds – and the key considerations that come with being a recipient, subrecipient or contractor under one of these public assistance vehicles.

Please join an expert presenter for a discussion that will describe funding vehicles and how to identify possible opportunities; consider key accounting and compliance considerations; and address impacts of non-compliance and fraud in emergency spending.

Shareholder lawsuits are not only complicated to litigate, but due to the high financial stakes, these actions can be among the most threatening to a company and its directors and officers. It has been over twenty years since Congress enacted the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, and since that time, private actions under the federal securities laws have continued to be filed at a steady pace. In addition, shareholders have aggressively pursued state-law claims to contest mergers or to assert claims purportedly on behalf of companies. Over the last decade, the U.S. Supreme Court and the Delaware Supreme Court have issued multiple decisions impacting the way shareholder actions are litigated and decided. This One-Hour Briefing will highlight recent developments and trends in this constantly evolving and complex area of the law.

Expert faculty will discuss shareholders actions, filing and settlement trends; developments in appraisal litigation, in which shareholders whose shares will be cashed out in a merger or consolidation seek judicial appraisal of the value of their shares; and developments concerning loss causation in Section 10(b) cases precipitated by short seller reports. Participants in this One-Hour Briefing are entitled to a 35% discount on the cover price of PLI's Securities Litigation: A Practitioner's Guide, Second Edition.

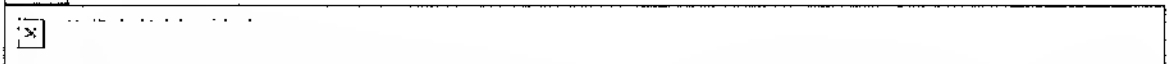

Trademark Surveys: Update

January 17, 1-2pm ET

Trademark surveys continue to be common features of trademark litigation, and to generate satellite litigations about their admissibility and probative value. Topics of this update will include the current state of the law on immunity of communications between lawyers and experts, and Daubert hearings; the growing relevance and influence of consumer behavioral economics and psychology on trademark cases; and review of standard components of confusion and strength ("secondary meaning") surveys.

Join expert presenters, including a renowned survey expert, for discussion about the relevant universe of surveys; screening questions; bias of questions and demand effects; stimulus (label, advertisement, etc.) and setting; controls; and probative rates of confusion and recognition. IP attorneys, paralegals, marketing and advertising personnel should register now. Participants in this One-Hour Briefing are entitled to a 35% discount on the price of PLI's Likelihood of Confusion in Trademark Law.

Product Safety and Quality: Managing the Legal and Commercial Risks Associated with Defective Products in a World of Big Data and Disruptive Analytical Techniques

January 18, 3-4pm ET

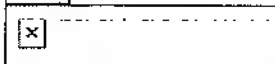

The emergence of big data and advanced techniques for analyzing that data give companies the opportunity to detect product safety and quality issues earlier and in more effective ways than they have in the past. Regulators expect companies to have systems and controls to quickly identify and mitigate product problems. Companies can increase customer satisfaction, improve their brand, and avoid costly warranty and recall costs. This session will provide real-world techniques and examples of how companies can implement cutting-edge techniques and processes to address this challenge – and opportunity.

Expert faculty will provide a multidisciplinary presentation that will identify traditional and emerging sources of data that read on product safety and quality; discuss various techniques for the analysis of this data from traditional classical statistics to advancements in machine learning and natural language processing; review case studies from actual client matters where such systems have been successfully implemented; and deal with relevant regulatory agencies, especially given the evolving expectations of those agencies with the advent of big data and advanced analytics.

Revisions to the U.S. Department of Justice's FCPA Corporate Enforcement Policy and Other Current Trends in FCPA Investigations

January 19, 1-2pm ET

Faculty:

Nicolas Bourtin
Sullivan & Cromwell LLP
New York City

In November 2017, Deputy Attorney General Rod Rosenstein announced a revised Department of Justice ("DOJ") FCPA corporate enforcement policy. The policy, which has been formally incorporated into the United States Attorneys' Manual, replaces the FCPA Pilot Program, which had been initiated in 2016.

Aisling O'Shea
Sullivan & Cromwell LLP
Washington, DC

In this presentation, expert faculty will discuss the new policy's presumption that a matter will be resolved through a declination, rather than an enforcement action, if the company meets criteria for voluntary self-reporting, cooperation, and remediation; exceptions to the presumption of a declination and the implications of those exceptions; the new policy's guidance about self-reporting, cooperation, and remediation; and current trends in FCPA investigations and how the codification of the FCPA Pilot Program fits with the government's recent approach to FCPA matters.

6 Elements of Effective Compliance Training: What Moves the Needle

The foundation of any effective compliance training program begins with six essential elements:

- Executive commitment
- Accountability and ownership
- Training and support
- End-user engagement
- Alignment
- Value measurement

When all these pieces come together and work in unison, a mature and effective culture of compliance emerges. This free paper outlines these components and explores how each one contributes to organizational strategy and efficacy.

The huge expansion in virtual currencies in states across the nation and globally has led to a significant need for attorneys proficient in the cutting-edge use of related legal and regulatory issues. The laws vary greatly and have been in flux with the proliferation of Fortune 500 companies, governments, and start-ups seeking to take advantage of this growing use of currency. The faculty for this seminar features several leading authorities on the subject. This comprehensive program on virtual currency law will introduce you to the most relevant issues and practical solutions, including Blockchain, bitcoin innovation, as well as issues relating to the Bank Secrecy Act, Anti-Money Laundering, Office of the Comptroller of the Currency proposals, SEC regulations, U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission Lab Program, and rules enacted by the Conference of State Bank Supervisors. The faculty will also cover the changes and progress on the latest legal developments and future regulations, including taxation of Bitcoin & virtual currency, and compliance & avoidance strategies. Registration includes online access to course and reference materials that serve as a helpful guide to the numerous topics and techniques discussed in the program.

Subject: Sandy Miller Update

Hi Everyone,

A few weeks ago I shared an update in my biweekly report that volunteer Sandy Miller had been in a serious car accident. Her dogs were in the car with her and in the process of the crash their crate broke open and both dogs got loose. Charlie, who is a therapy dog with us, was found fairly quickly but her other dog Annie was missing.

Yesterday Sandy got word from a rescue group in the area of the accident that Annie's body has been found. She was found relatively close to the scene of the accident and the rescuers suspect that the stress and trauma of the accident may have caused a heart attack. Although we can't confirm that at this time Sandy has found some peace in the idea that Annie has not been suffering in the cold outdoors these past few weeks.

My team is circulating a card today but I wanted to give everyone the heads up about this update as I know Sandy and her family are donors and supporters of our organization in ways beyond just the Outreach Department. I will also be following up with Development to order a brick for the patio in Annie's memory.

Holiday Party Etiquette

26% of men and 18% of women use alcohol as a crutch to get through the holiday events. While holiday parties are great, they're also a prime place for compliance infringements. If you're not prepared, these compliance issues could result in sexual harassment claims or even a lawsuit.

The importance of training your managers and employees on compliance issues related to behavior cannot be overstated.

Download this infographic of tips and tricks to ensure you have a compliant (and fun) holiday party.

David,
Thank you for sending us this update. How VERY sad and tragic. I cannot even imagine how Sally must be feeling. I think the brick in memory of Annie is a lovely remembrance.
Thank you again for letting us know,

Subject: Sandy Miller Update

Hi Everyone,

A few weeks ago I shared an update in my biweekly report that volunteer Sandy Miller had been in a serious car accident. Her dogs were in the car with her and in the process of the crash their crate broke open and both dogs got loose. Charlie, who is a therapy dog with us, was found fairly quickly but her other dog Annie was missing.

Yesterday Sandy got word from a rescue group in the area of the accident that Annie's body has been found. She was found relatively close to the scene of the accident and the rescuers suspect that the stress and trauma of the accident may have caused a heart attack. Although we can't confirm that at this time Sandy has found some peace in the idea that Annie has not been suffering in the cold outdoors these past few weeks.

My team is circulating a card today but I wanted to give everyone the heads up about this update as I know Sandy and her family are donors and supporters of our organization in ways beyond just the Outreach Department. I will also be following up with Development to order a brick for the patio in Annie's memory.

That's wonderful David.

I spoke with Sandy last evening. She is devastated. In addition to totaling her car and her broken sternum from the airbag she is grieving Annie.

This is her address if anyone would like to send her a card or note. I think she would appreciate it.

Dear District Attorney:

The Pennsylvania Board of Probation and Parole, in accordance with the Prisons and Parole Code, 61 Pa.C.S. §§ 6131, 6132, 6137 (g), 6139 (c), has scheduled the above-named inmate for parole consideration. Review of the case, including an interview, is scheduled for FEBRUARY 2018. It is the practice of the Board to interview an inmate four months prior to the expiration of the minimum sentence in order to facilitate the timely completion of the decision-making and release processes. Please be advised, that the inmate will not be released from confinement prior to the expiration of the minimum sentence if approved for parole. Your recommendations regarding the inmate's possible release on parole will be taken into consideration by the Board. To insure that your recommendations are provided during the Board's decision-making process, please submit the enclosed Memorandum form or other written comments by JANUARY 18, 2018. If not received by that date, the Board shall presume that there are no objections to the inmate's release on parole.

The Crime Victims Act, 18 P.S. §§ 11.101 et seq., includes the right of crime victims to submit prior comment on certain release decisions made by the Board of Probation and Parole. Any crime victim wishing to exercise his/her right under this law should contact the Pennsylvania Office of the Victim Advocate at 1-800-563-6399 (Board of Probation and Parole).

If you have further questions, please do not hesitate to contact my office.

Greetings,

Raymond, a brown Tabby cat was brought to us this past March. He is a shy, but lovable, nine year old boy who found his forever home with Kim McMillan back in October. Although she has only had him for a few months, he has warmed his way into her world and become part of her family.

It came to our attention today that Raymond has developed Intestinal Lymphoma, which is spreading into his lungs and also causing an enlarged liver. Please send your thoughts and prayers to Kim and Raymond over the holiday season.

Our Humane Investigations team works tirelessly all year long to ensure the safety and well being of animals who need us. And, that was exactly the case when we rescued dozens of fearful Collie mixes from deplorable conditions on a property in our very own community.

But as the court proceedings continued, law enforcement made a grisly discovery – one that made it clear we hadn't just made our community a safer place for animals, but for everyone.

A Practical Approach to Understanding Industrial Hygiene

Industrial hygiene (IH) is a complex science that is a career path in its own right akin to doctors, lawyers, and engineers with its own degree programs and accredited certifications. This can be a challenge for executive leadership attempting to manage this function which supports the organization's overall mission.

Managers and supervisors are known to be most effective when they understand not just how the operational component of their organization functions, but also when they understand how support functions can aid the organization's mission.

Join this session with expert speaker Jarred O'Dell, who will provide executive leaders and organizational managers an overview of the four functional areas of industrial hygiene as well as some insights for effectively managing an IH workgroup. You will gain a functional understanding of chemical hazards, physical hazards, biological hazards and ergonomic hazards. With the foundation of these four functional areas, the session will conclude by providing some practical techniques for incorporating industrial hygiene functions into work processes so that they support instead of hindering the organization's mission.

Session Highlights

This session will present types of hazards associated with each category followed by mitigation techniques, including:

- Chemical hazards, which will cover the "Routes of Exposure" concept
- Types and examples of respiratory hazards
- Physical hazards, which will cover the concepts of temperature, ionizing radiation, non-ionizing radiation, and noise with examples
- Imaging technology of noise canceling devices
- Biological hazards assessment, based on their subdivision into three categories
 - Viral hazards

- Bacterial hazards
- Fungal hazards
- Ergonomic hazards, which will cover the hazards of twisting, awkward posturing, working overhead, kneeling, lifting, gripping, static posturing, overreaching, forceful exertion, contact stress, repetitive motion, vibration, and bending
- Some practical insights for working with and managing industrial hygiene

9 Things Recruiters Do That They Shouldn't

Recruiting can feel a lot like dating: two parties looking for people they want to spend their days with, both excited for the opportunity to find the right fit but nervous about the risks involved.

When organizations make bad hires or don't offer the training and resources necessary to keep an employee on board they have nobody to blame but themselves.

So, download this free eBook to see the 9 things recruiters do that they shouldn't if they want to hire and retain the right people.

Subject: Another Animal Friends United Way Code

Good morning:

In addition to the United Way code for the Therapets Program, I'm happy to report that there is also a code for Pets for Vets. Donations can be made to Pets for Vets by using code number 12578787. We currently do not have an advertisement for this code for you to distribute. However, if you're interested in learning more about Pets for Vets and sharing that information with others, please visit this link:

<http://www.thinkingoutsidethecage.org/site/c.elKWleOUiHJ6H/b.8454551/apps/s/content.asp?ct=14851269>

While many companies may have completed the 2017 United Way campaigns for 2018 donations, those interested in donating directly to Pets for Vets will find a donation link on the page above. The Corporate and Small Business sub-committee will also circulate this information for the 2018-2019 United Way campaign.

Have a wonderful holiday season.

Subject: Animal Friends United Way Code
Good afternoon:

As the new chairperson of the Development Committee's Corporate & Small Business Subcommittee, I'm working with Stefania Romoff to increase awareness of Animal Friends as a potential recipient of funding through the United Way's annual campaign. I've attached an electronic version of the color flyer which explains the funding AF can receive for its Therapets Program, and provides the donation codes for same. If your employer, corporation, or small business participates in the United Way's annual campaign, please provide this information to your campaign coordinator for distribution.

Let's get the word out about this important and rewarding program!
